Dear Mrs. I Gusti Wendri:

Information about your paper #1570749715 ('Potential Resources For Development of Sustainable Green Tourism In Sangkan Gunung Village, Karangasem Residency, Bali Province') for iCAST 2021 was changed by I Gusti Made Wendri ():

Abstract: The present tourism trend shows that conventional tourist products begin to lose attractiveness since the tourist shifts interest to more quality tourist activities that allow active involvement. Green tourism with special-interest activities becomes the right offer made to the tourist. A related definition defines green tourism as sustainable tourism, namely tourism which causes no damage in the destination.

The village of Sangkan Gunung has a lot of potentials to be developed into products of green tourism which attract tourists with high awareness of the importance of environment in life. The development of green tourism is potential to provide positive impacts for the local community. Utilizing the CBT concept, the local community will necessarily be empowered first whereby to make them aware of their own capability to develop the available local potentials.

Dear Mrs. I Gusti Wendri:

Information about your paper #1570673538 ('Human Resource Development Model for Wellness Products to Support Sustainable Tourism in Sangkan Gunung Village, Karangasem Regency, Bali Province') for iCAST 2020 was changed by I Gusti Made Wendri ():

Paper title: Human Resource Development Model for Wellness Products to Support Sustainable Tourism in Sangkan Gunung Village, Karangasem Regency, Bali Province

Abstract: The purposes of this study are to identify the competencies the human resources should have for wellness products creation in supporting sustainable tourism, and to determine human resource development model related to wellness products in Sangkan Gunung village, Karangasem Resgency, Bali Province. This study uses a soft system methodological approach to structure the problems identified in the 'Pokdarwis' tourist-concerned group in that village. The conceptual model was built up after the identification of five problems, all pertaining to the 'Pokdarwis' lack of understanding of the current wellness trends. This is known from the data collected through in-depth interviews with selected informants within the group. Following the problem formulation a comparison is made between the conceptual theoretical model and the factual condition of the group by which to see the possibility to make necessary changes through the application of root definition formula. The comparison revealed the inferior factual condition on the part the local human resource, for which 5 (five) points of solution are needed, namely the following: the need to understand wellness with its various dimensions, to understand tourist motivation, activities related to wellness dimensions, product development, and community involvement.
