the paper can be accepted with several revision, as follows:
1. Manuscripts must be written according to the template, namely: font size for titles, abstract writing, placement of keywords, writing and placement of headings, how to write numbers and names of tables and figures, and the writing of references.
2. Check back Grammarly
3. In the Introduction section, several similar studies should be added in order to show the novelty of the research based on gaps in other studies.
4. The introduction still does not show the state of the art research as well as a clear contribution based on the real problems of this paper.
5. The introduction must contain the background of the research, problems and objectives, results (measurable), and conclusions and recommendations.
6. The method of citing references still needs to be improved.
7. Writing in References to be corrected again, References in the text must be sorted from number [1] and so on (see template). The references used are very few and related research must be added
8. Results and Discussion section, the author only discuss the results without display results. The author is obliged to discuss the results found comprehensively.
9. You can present state of the art research separately from the introduction. you should also briefly describe the method you use
